Amazon When you need to escape from your current reality and from someone else, you can't just beat the hairstyle with a good book. If you are the kind of person who loves to hold a hard copy of their favorite readings in your hands, a type of e-reader so you can get literary wherever you are (and save a little precious shelf space!), or you prefer to listen to the best audiobooks so you can devour your new obsession during travel or cleaning, the best books of 2020 should definitely make your TBR list. This year, some of our long-time favorite writers (here they look at you, Sue Monk Kidd, Nick Hornby and Nicholas Sparks!) came out with new readings to love, while some debut authors are already making a big splash with their first incursions on the scene. A handful of those have already been chosen for the rights of movies or TV, so you want to read before they hit the screen. Get ready to fall in love with our 2020 favorite books in memories, novels, historical novels, mystery, literary novels and more. And when you're done, hand it over. The only best thing to immerse yourself in a great story is to share that experience with a friend (and don't forget to enjoy our list of the best 2019 books if you haven't lost them!) 1 of 56 long river bright: A novel In a part of Philadelphia hit hard by the opioids crisis, foreign sisters Kacey and Mickey bring very different lives. Kacey struggles with addiction while Mickey is a beat cop. When Kacey disappears at the same time as a series of murders, Mickey becomes obsessed with finding the killer – and his sister – before it is too late. 2 of 56 Topics of Conversation: A novel Miranda Popkey We spend so many of our lives in conversation with others, and those conversations create our own! This debut novel explores that idea, written almost entirely in conversations between women over 20 years of the narrator's life. He is anger, indignation and ingenuity, ingenuity, what can emerge when women start talking. 3 of 56 Darling Rose Gold Stephanie Wrobel When Patty Watts goes to prison for slowly poisoning her daughter Rose Gold, the sheltered 19-year-old has to learn how to navigate the world alone. Upon her release five years later, Patty comes to live with her daughter and expects to fall right back in line as her little girl's 44 keeper. But Rose Gold has other, darker plans. 4 of 56 Recollections of My Nonexistence: A Memoir Rebecca Solnit This powerful memoir reveals how Solnit's 44's coming-of-age as a journalist and a woman in 1980s San Francisco shaped her as a writer and a feminist. She grapples with sexual harassment, poverty, trauma, and women's 44's exclusion from the cultural conversation, while discovering punk rock and the LGBTQ+ community as safe havens. Her words have long empowered people who feel voiceless, and her latest book is no exception. 5 of 56 A Long Petal of the Sea: A Novel Pregnant widow Roser and Victor Dalmow, the brother of her deceased love, marry in the aftermath of the fascist takeover in 1930s Spain, in order to flee on a ship chartered by the poet Pablo Neruda. Along with the other refugees, they start over in Chile as Europe erupts in war, and find a way to embrace their new life and each other in exile. 6 of 56 Writers & Lovers: A Novel Casey is blindsided by grief after her mother's 44's sudden death, drowning in debt, and barely making it through her days as a waitress and aspiring novelist. As she struggles to finish her novel, she falls in love with two very different men who can offer her very divergent lives. More than just romance hinges on her choice, and you 44'll hold your breath as she decides. 7 of 56 It's Not All Downhill From Here: A Novel Terry McMillan At 68, Loretha Curry has it all: a booming business, a gaggle of dedicated friends, and a husband who still lights her fire. She 44's looking forward to her best days yet to come, when the tragic loss crushes his world. 8 of 56 The Mercies Kiran Millwood Hargrave In the Christmas Eve 1617, in the distant Vardo, in Finland, a frightening storm sweeps almost all the men of the village. Women living there must find a way to survive, some in unconventional ways. When the witch-hunter Absalom Cornet is sent to the village with her young bride Ursula, she develops a special bond with the local woman Maren. With the echoes of the Salem Witch, this historical narrative shows how strong women have always fought for survival. 9 of 56 Time: A novel In a story that always feels close to home, we meet Lizzie, a librarian who works at the same university where he abandoned the specialization school to help his drugged brother. When her former mentor asks Lizzie to help respond to e-mails to her climate apocalypse, Hell and High Water, she is thrown into an increasingly unexpected discussion of what climate change means on both sides of the aisle. 10 of 56 Dreamland Nancy Bilyeau Do not sleep on this beautiful novel that turns and turns like Ciclon through Coney Island. Social Peggy is sent to spend the summer there, and is not happy — that is, until she falls in love with one of the artists on the pier. When the bodies begin to accumulate in the summer heat, Peggy must join a deception network before she or those who love to fall asleep forever. 11 of 56 Such a Funny Age Alix Chamberlain is used to get what you want, and she manages an activity that inspires other women to do the same. But when his babysitter Emira Tucker is compared (and filmed) to a grocery store in the Alix neighborhood, both women face their places in society. Nobody knows who killed her. It wasn't me. Here is her corpse." An elderly widow finds him in the and her horror and curiosity soon turns into an obsession. But just as her investigation begins to take shape, we begin to doubt our narrator's grip on reality. This is part crime 44 thriller book, part dark comedy and totally delightful. 17 of 56 The Book of Longings: A Novel Sue Monk Kidd The latest from Sue Monk Kidd introduces us to Ana, a courageous, intelligent woman who marries Jesus long before his public ministry begins. 44 Based on meticulous historical research, this is a humanizing look at Jesus the man, as well as an inspiring story of a strong woman living in a society bent on her silence. 18 of 56 The Sun Down Motel In this creepy supernatural thriller, Carly moves to the decrepit town of Fell to find out what happened when her aunt Viv disappeared from her job at the Sun Down Motel 44 in 1982. After Carly starts working there, strange things start happening. It only gets stranger as she uncovers a possible serial killer preying on women in Fell, and it's not long before the mystery becomes very, very real. 19 of 56 Glorious Boy As the Japanese close in on invading India, 44 Claire, and Shep must evacuate the Andaman islands with their mute four-year-old boy, Ty. But just before they're due to leave, Ty and Naila, the local girl who helps them communicate with him, disappear. As time runs out, Shep forces Claire onto the ship, staying behind to search for Ty. As the Japanese take the islands, all three undertake a risky odyssey toward reunion. 20 of 56 The Moment of Tenderness Madeline L'Engle Following the thread of L'Engle's lonely childhood in New York to her life as a mom in Connecticut, and the current of faith that runs throughout, this new short story collection offers a look into her world. Fans of A Wrinkle In Time will enjoy dipping back into L'Engle's elegant prose and her distillation of normal life into singular beauty. 21 of 56 Stray: A Memoir Stephanie Danler From the author of Sweetbitter this deeply personal, emotionally wrenching memoir that explores her complicated relationship with her parents and their own addictions. It's an unflinching account of what we carry with us from our parents, and what we can put down if we can find the strength. 22 of 56 The Herd: A Novel When the founder of a super Instagrammable-women-only coworking space disappears, her friends are frantic to find her. But along the way, they start uncovering disturbing secrets about her, each other and even themselves. For those of us who can't get into The Wing, this is a must-read. 23 of 56 The Regrets Amy Bonnaffons Rachel and Thomas's chemistry is undeniable, but there's one tiny problem: he's dead. And he's under strict instructions not to engage with anyone alive while he's in his personal limbo, at the risk of accruing "regrets." When he breaks the rule, the results are delightfully weird, and weirdly delightful. 24 of 56 The Night Watchman Based on the life of her grandfather, who 44 worked as a night watchman and worked 44 against Native dispossession from rural North Dakota to Washington, D.C., this tome explores the treatment of women and native people, as well as the vagaries of human nature. 44 With elegant language, sly wit, and an emotional sensibility that sneaks up on you like an intruder in the night. 25 of 56 The Glass Hotel: A Novel For fans of the dystopian 44 Station Eleven, this new release comes at just the right time. This one explores the connection between a Ponzi scheme collapse and a woman disappearing at sea. Think they've got nothing in common? You'll just have to read to find out. 26 of 56 All Adults Here: A Novel A school bus accident in a small town prompts reflection for a mother and her now-grown children in Straubel's 44's most recent novel, which sees its characters grappling with their identities and places in life. Come for the close examination of parental and child roles, stay for goats e 44 goats. 27 of 56 too much: like the Victorian constraints still bind women today call all the women and people who love them: this complete book perfectly intertwines academic scholarship, involving storytelling and extremely convincing topics that will also convert those who think suffrage solved all the our problems. Anyone who has ever been said to sit, shine, and that the girls should be seen and not heard, this is for you. 28 of 56 sharks in the Time of the Salvatori: a novel that travels between the lush Hawaii, Washington and California, this family saga is slightly mystical and deeply rooted. When the tragedy affects the Flores family, everyone has to face their relationship with supernatural forces, socio-economic struggles and, of course, each other. It is a story that I bring you. 29 of 56 Home Before Dark for fans of the history of Amityville Horror arrives another respirator from the success machine Sager. Maggie's father found fame and luck writing a real story of their time in a haunted house, but he is never well organized with Maggie. When she returns home after the death of her father, she is determined to weed the story. But what happens is much left of what she expected. 30 of 56 Godshot: in Novel we have a left religious cult Margaret Atwood itself would approve of, a line of telephone sex, taxidermia and a mother-leafy relationship that shows how far a girl will go to repair the first bond that we will all experience. What's not liked? Guy?
